Total Score: 840

A typical student at this level often demonstrates comprehension of complex written and spoken materials, drawing on knowledge of complex language structures and vocabulary.

Test takers who score between 250 and 285 typically have the following strengths:

- They can understand main ideas that are explicitly stated in academic and non-academic extended spoken texts where the language is simple and the context is clear.
- They can identify important details in academic and non-academic extended spoken texts where the language is simple and the context is clear.
- They can make inferences in short spoken texts where the language is simple and the context is clear.
- They can understand some common idioms used in moderately complex speech.
- They can understand how information is being used by a speaker (e.g., to make a comparison or to provide evidence to support an argument) when the context is familiar.

Level
B1

Test takers who score between 250 and 275 typically have the following strengths:

- They usually recognize the accurate meaning and use of basic grammatical structures (e.g., comparative adjectives) in non-academic and academic texts but do not consistently recognize the accurate meaning and use of more advanced structures.
- They demonstrate knowledge of vocabulary typically used in everyday, non-academic texts.
- They usually recognize how sentences combine to create cohesive, meaningful paragraphs in non-academic texts, but sometimes have difficulty doing so with academic texts.

CEFR
Level
B1

Test takers who score between 280 and 300 typically have the following strengths:

- They can understand main ideas in non-academic and academic texts, including ones that are not explicitly stated.
- They can accurately comprehend important details in non-academic and academic texts, including texts with a high level of linguistic complexity.
- They can effectively make inferences when reading, including inferences needed to understand why an author includes certain information (e.g., to make a comparison or to provide evidence to support an argument) in non-academic and academic texts.
- They can usually infer the attitude or point of view of a character in a fictional story.
- They can usually understand figurative language and determine the meaning of unfamiliar vocabulary words from context, even in linguistically complex academic texts.
